Introduction: you play as gnome, and your wife jul has just been stolen by the evil trolls!
It is now up to you to save her.

Pg#1: You are on the bottom left corner, and you see a house, but it is locked, so the only way to get in is by getting the hidden key from that bush in the middle of the screen. If the player tries to go in through the windows they cut themselves and die. If the player tries to go into the entrance of the hill the troll will roll a boulder down at them, and hit them. To defeat the troll throw your spear you got from the house, and then he will not have time to react.

Pg#2: You go into the abandoned house, and find a spear on the wall that you can use later on, and also there is a poster on the wall, and if you look behind it, you find 4 mercado coins. If you talk to the little gnome-looking creature he will tell you that his name is Gorgu, and he is a half gnome. He will only give you the key if you promise to help him look for others of his species in the future. You will need the key later on in the game to activate the airplane.

Pg#3: You enter the hill, and you are met with a giant maze! Right away to your left you see a spider, who does not talk, but you must throw the spear at its middle eye to kill it, and then you can flick the lever. (you must flick all three levers to open the door at the end of the maze to access the plane). The creature in the bottom right of the screen is known as a Floor Eater, and is very deadly. He basically is a hole in the floor that has powerful jaws, and uses his big tongue to grab his victims. To get past him use your spear to hit his tongue, and then you can jump over him. Note: your spear will get eaten, so if you can find another way that would be good too. In the middle left above the spider is just a regular guy that you have to take down by charging him, and he will not expect it. Next in the top left there is a dude sleeping. If you cross the line he will slap you to death, but if you step over it, and are very quiet you can flick the lever, but do it very quietly. Finally there is a giant fan in your way, and it will keep pushing you down, so to get past it hug the edges of the tunnel, and grip into the wall. Then the door will unlock because you flicked all 3 levers, and you can now access the plane and fly away.

Pg#4: This is a flight screen, and you notice that its in the middle of a thunderstorm. To get past the two enemy fighters you can do multiple different things, and its up to the PCG master to see what makes sense. Here is one of the paths you could do: Fly to the cloud to the right. Then while you are to the side of the first plane (The enemy will not shoot his other friend's plane, so you can hide behind it) quickly zoom into the middle cloud, but try dodging the lighting strikes. And boom you have got past them, and now your plane needs to land.

Pg#5: You land and see your wife has been kidnaped by another stinking troll!! To get past this troll who is on a hoverboard, you can either try talking him out of it, or climbing that tree and try knocking him off his hoverboard. Then you have beat the game!
