

Instructions

You play as ZOOVAC, the robotic clown on a stick, who's just received the worst haircut of his life. Enraged by this, our hero must get his revenge by not only getting a refund but also getting the employee fired!

Zoovac's Abilities

Ordinarily, Zoovac can hack into any computer system or robot and take control of it – but because of his bad hair cut, many of his Connectome Hairs have been severed! As such, he can no longer directly control computer systems, and instead can only send emails and make phone calls with his mind.

Zoovac can't walk, nor does he have arms to pick up items with.

The Screen

Nearby offscreen is the employee who cut Zoovac's hair. Her name is Emily. Zoovac can talk to her.

- If he demands a refund, she'll happily grant it.
- If he demands she resign, she'll refuse.
- If he asks to see the manager, she'll ask the manager but he's too busy.
 - To do this, she goes to the register and uses the computer to dial his phone number.

There's a cash register in the background. It's connected to a PC.

- Zoovac can send messages to the PC, causing it to ding.

On the right of the screen, there's a large mirror above a shelf for scissors, shavers, and other barber's stuff. Next to the shelf are two chairs for haircuts.

The Manager

Zoovac can only reach the manager by calling him directly on the phone. But first he has to find out the phone number.

- When Emily goes to the PC, to call the manager, she will use it to dial his phone #. Then, Zoovac can detect which numbers she dialed.
- Zoovac can't just complain about the haircut; he has to defame her in some other way. For example, he has to claim she's guilty of a terrible crime. And there has to be evidence – in the form of an article or some similar media, that Zoovac can tie to her somehow.
- It's up to the player to figure out how to do this, and up to the PCG master whether it works.

The Goal

You win the game if you achieve both of these things:

1. You get a refund;
2. You get Emily fired.