2022 Paper Computer Game

Introduction: This game takes place directly after the first game in this series titled, The Cursed Fig. This takes place directly after that game where you had just gone through a portal, and now you awake in a pool of oil.

Pg#1: This is just the cutscene that gives you info on what happens directly after the first game. The next screen will take place a few days after this screen.

Pg#2: On this page you are just walking and minding your own business, and trying to destroy some humans when all of a sudden a massive creature enters your mind and this screen is what you see.

The godly being known by few is called THE GREAT FIG! He will tell you that he has seen your great power, and he now wants to give you a mission. He says that for generations the fig species have been terrorized and depressing. No fig has ever worshiped THE GREAT FIG, because no fig ever felt that they deserved a religion or to believe in such a being. So he will tell you to go visit The Company, and ask them to build you a device that will change all that.

Pg#3: You journey to the company base on the planet Gondo, and you are welcomed in. (go to pg#4)

Pg#4: Inside the company base you meet a young man to your right named Merix Marx. He will guide you to Pg#5 after you meet with The Shadow. The Shadow is on the big tv screen, and he will discuss matters of what to create that will fix the figs.....(He might have other plans of things to put on the device too) Merix will then lead you through the door to see what the prototype looks like.

Pg#5: Merix shows you a big converter belt that is producing these chips that you can implant into the figs to then give them a purpose to live, and thrive. (The first test subject was named Figfus Jr. from the game Story of Figfus Jr.) That is where this game ends, but there is much more to be explored in the next game which is coming soon....
