Quick history of this game: this game was planned all the way back in 2022, but was finally made in 2023, so that is why it says 2022.

Introduction: You play as John (feel free to use any main character you want). You have been tracking down the company for quite some time, and have stumbled upon their 2nd base on the planet Gondo. Since you are so curious as to what lies inside you decide to go in....

Screen#1: You are on the bottom left of the screen, and you see a bucket to the right. You can fill the bucket with water from the water faucet to the left. In the middle of the screen is a company robot who will attempt to kill you using his long legs and scary appearance. To defeat him all you have to do is pour the water bucket on his circuits.

Screen #2: You move into the next room only to see two more mechs standing on a platform a little higher than yours. You can use the hook as a swing to jump up to them and use your bucket as a weapon. The lever across the bridge will bring the other platform to yours so you can move on, but to flick the lever you must use the gun to shoot it.

Screen #3: On this screen you see an infected robot, he is struggling to keep character, because the infection is spreading and turning him into a zombie. (this was the remains of the company building the techno zombie virus, and testing it on a robot.) There is a giant pink mushroom to the right of you, and you can use your hands to scrape off some of the strange gel and apply it to the robots infected parts to save him. His name is A1-76-Bounty Hunter, and he will be your new companion if you save him.

Screen #4: On this page you see a spaceship that you can use to get back to the surface of Gondo, but Fart Vader is there guarding it. Fart Vader has a lightsaber that he will use to try to kill you, All you have to do is use what is left of your water to pour on his lightsaber, and then you can move in and jump him. (This screen can be completed in other ways too.)
